They have been chosen also to prepare you for subjects which will be taught in English throughout your degree programme. These blocks are structured so that you will gradually learn the language and skills necessary to complete the individual and group assignments, which will, in turn, help you prepare for the tests and the final exam.

Attendance and participation in class are essential to ensure progress and successful completion of the course.

By the end of the course students should be able to employ a range of structures and vocabulary and present information in a way that is logical and easy for the reader/ listener to follow using a style and register that is appropriate for that situation.

TEACHING AND LEARNING METHODOLOGIES AND ACTIVITIES:

Teaching and learning methodologies and activities applied:

Learning/ Teaching Methodology employed: Class activities are carried out entirely in English. A communicative approach will be used in class which means that integrating skills and interaction is emphasised. Integrating skills means students work on topics through a variety of activities (speaking, listening, reading and writing). Students work in groups or in pairs, practicing oral English with the teacher and among themselves. You are encouraged to actively participate in debates and case studies. You are expected to demonstrate your understanding of topics and language structures not only through speaking activities, but also writing tasks including emails, short translations, reports and essays.

Independent Study and Self-Study exercises. Students are expected to study grammar and do the self-study exercises required each week. There are five 'self-study tasks' and two unit tests designed to revise and consolidate course contents. It is important that you complete and upload these tasks and later check the corrections yourself. For the most part, grammar should be studied at home; a small percentage of class time is intended for grammar instruction and practice. Group exercises will be done in class to incorporate the new grammatical concepts learned. If you have doubts or questions, these exercises may be discussed, or on a limited basis, reviewed in class. In addition, always remember to consult the teacher during office hours (or by appointment) when you are having trouble. The teacher will be happy to help you and assign specific exercises.

Participation: Because English class is the only place where you can practice listening and speaking, class attendance is crucial.

It is extremely important that you come well prepared to class and keep up-to-date with assignments. The teacher will check that you have completed the exercises and will correct and give feedback on written assignments.

Homework/ tasks: You are responsible for handing work in on time. Late work will NOT be accepted and you cannot make up missing classwork. You are expected to check the PDU regularly for instructions and deadlines for individual and group tasks. The lecturer will give feedback on written assignments.

Academic expectations: San Jorge University and CESUGA maintain a high standard of academic integrity among its faculty members and students. In becoming part of this academic community you are responsible for honest and independent work. Any act of academic fraud will be seriously taken into account and this will result in an automatic failure.

ALL work must be your own work, without the help of others. To clarify what kind of help is admitted, refer to the following list.

YOU MAY:

- Consult with your teacher during office hours.
